PIONEER WASHER.
E. G. BOLTER,
AGENT FOR OREGON AND WASHINGTON TERRITORY

THIS CELEBRATED WASHING MACHINE IS now for the first time introduced to the Oregon public. It is distinguished for its simplicity, durability and the rapidity and ease of its action. Washing the dirtiest clothes perfectly clean in from five to ten minutes with but slight labor, and lasting, with proper care, for ten years! The wear and tear of clothing in washing by this machine is vastly less than by any other known process of washing. It does its work by a reverse motion in forcing the water through the clothes.
It having a light cover, the steam thus assists similarly in cleansing the clothing, and also avoids the inhaling of steam from hot suds.
This Machine captured the Special Premium at the California State Fair, and all that have used it pronounce it an invaluable adjunct to old housekeepers and families and washing men and washing women.
It has been extensively introduced throughout the State of California, and receives the universal commendation of all who have used it.
THE COUNTY RIGHTS, now unsold, will be sold at a bargain if applied for soon.

Position of the German Republicans.

Letter from General Carl Schurz.

Some time since the Chairman of the Republican Committee of Wisconsin addressed the following note to General Carl Schurz:

MADISON (Wis.) September 5, 1867.
GENERAL CARL SCHURZ, ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.
—Dear General: The opposition press in this State have had considerable to say respecting certain advice which, according to a letter of Charles Roeser, published in the Boston Commonwealth, you have given the Republican Germans. The statement in Roeser's letter is as follows:

"The Westliche Post, edited by Carl Schurz, likewise advises the Germans to bid farewell to the Republican party in State and local elections, however, to national elections again to stand firm to the Republican party, whose imperative duty it is to secure those benefits obtained out of the war for the suppression of the rebellion fought by this party in the interest of universal liberty and equality. The admonition can become fatal to the Republican organization; for when a division occurs in the Republican party in State elections, where a portion of that party confronts it as an enemy, one cannot well in national elections fraternize with that enemy again."

The object of this note is to inquire whether Roeser has correctly given your position. You will observe that this statement is in general terms, that he represents you as making no exceptions, but as absolutely advising the German Republicans to abandon their party in all State elections, because some Republicans, in some States, are in favor of certain measures of a local character to which the Germans are generally opposed. From my acquaintance with you, as a firm and zealous advocate of the principles of the National Republican party, I find it difficult to believe that you would advise your German friends to a course which seems to me unjust, inconsistent and indefensible. Truly yours,

HORACE RUBLEE,
Chairman Republican State Committee.

General Schurz, in reply, says:

ST. LOUIS (Mo.), September 12, 1867.
HORACE RUBLEE, Chairman Republican State Central Committee of Wisconsin.—My Dear Sir—Your letter is received. You inquire whether Charles Roeser, in his letter to the Boston Commonwealth, gives a correct statement of my views in saying that I advised the Germans "to bid farewell to the Republican party in State and local elections, but to stand firm to the Republican party in national elections." This is not a correct exposition of my views, nor do I think Roeser intended to convey the impression that I advised my German friends to abandon the Republican party in all State and local elections.

The views I expressed in the newspaper articles I wrote some time ago on the prohibitory liquor law and similar oppressive and intolerant legislation, were exactly those I have always held and expressed when I had occasion to discuss this subject. They are easily summed.

That class of legislation to which the prohibitory liquor law belongs is intrinsically wrong, and ought, therefore to be vigorously opposed. The great political problem of this period is that of reconstruction. It involves the peace and happiness of this country for many years, perhaps for generations. It cannot be put off, and has to be solved on its own merits. The only political machinery through which, under existing circumstances, a successful solution of this problem can be secured, is the Republican party. Another Republican administration is necessary to place the results of the war beyond the dangers of a reaction, and to introduce them into the political habits of the people north and south. Until that object is accomplished, the Republican party is a necessity. Its defeat in a national election would certainly bring on a violent reaction and involve the republic in the dangers of protracted and bitter political struggles.

Whatever course we may be inclined to take with regard to other questions, the main issue must never be lost sight of. The Republican party has its faults. They may be great. It would be vastly preferable, could we organize a body free of such shortcomings. But to accomplish this previous to the next national election is an utter impossibility. The attempt could only benefit our opponents. If we want to settle the reconstruction business upon the basis of correct principles, we must therefore preserve the efficiency of the only available machinery for that purpose.

In the mean time, it is by no means our duty to submit tamely to attempts made to use the Republican organization in local and State elections for illegitimate and obnoxious purposes. We should, in the first place, vigorously oppose any such attempts inside of the party, and experience shows that if this be done with energy, prudence and tact, we can accomplish much. But if this should prove of no avail we are, in case of pressing necessity, at perfect liberty to try the effect of the defeat of Republican candidates as a remedy for the evil. There is, however, one circumstance under which the exercise of this right may be objected to, and that is, when by its exercise the national efficiency of the Republican organization should be seriously impaired and its national ends endangered—those ends being at the present moment of paramount importance.

These are the views I held and expressed whenever there was occasion for it. It would, however, be vain to deny that there are a good many radical Germans whom any attempt of the Republican party to inflict upon the community arbitrary legislation encroaching upon individual rights in an illegitimate way would induce them to sever their connection with the Republican organization regardless of consequences. Things have been done here and there which have already gone far to effect this result. From all sides we receive sets of resolutions against the prohibitory law and similar things, passed at German Republican meetings. The Germans have taken the alarm quite generally, and will not require much to produce a serious break in their ranks. It is best that our American friends should know this, and if I tell you so, you may believe me, that I judge from a full knowledge of the facts, and that I look at things coolly and without the least desire to exaggerate to myself or to you the danger.

I am surprised that any sensible temperance man in the Republican party should insist so obstinately upon this impracticable scheme, since the statistics of liquor consumption and drunkenness show that it rather aggravates than diminishes the evil, while on the other hand their attempt to thrust it upon us threatens to divide and seriously weaken us at a time when the country should be more united than ever. These obstinate attempts are, at this time, the more unreasonable, as their utter futility will soon become so evident to every sane man that after a little while they will most certainly be superseded by a more rational method of promoting virtue and morality among the people.

Temperance men commit a most singular mistake when they speak of the opponents of the prohibitory law as a set of tipplers and liquor dealers. I am earnestly opposed to prohibition, and yet I pretend to belong to neither one nor the other of those two classes. You are long enough acquainted with me to know that the entire absence of alcoholic liquors from the globe would cause no personal inconvenience to me. I am also one of those who sincerely abhor drunkenness and intemperance of any description. But I am just as earnestly opposed to that class of legislation which, in an arbitrary way, encroaches upon the rights of the individual, which, for this reason, will never be sustained by public sentiment, and which will only serve to familiarize the masses with the practice of law breaking, thus demoralizing them and undermining the popular respect for the laws in general. I may have occasion, some time or other, to set forth the reasons for my opposition at length. These reasons do not spring from any individual tastes, but are based upon principle and experience, and I am persuaded a very large proportion of the opponents of the prohibitory law among the Germans are impelled by just the same motives. To these men of sincere convictions the question of prohibition, etc., is something more than a mere question of beer and whisky.

I have heard the question asked why these men will not temporarily sacrifice their opinions or individual rights while the country is in danger and the national cause needs their aid. It may be asked with equal and more propriety why the Republican party do not give up their obnoxious hobby while the cause of the country demands unity of action. The opinions and claims of those who oppose prohibition on principle are certainly entitled to as much consideration and respect as the opinions of those who advocate it.

To conclude, I earnestly hope the German Republicans, while resolutely defending the cause of individual liberty where the Taxing Government Securities.

In considering the Maryland case in 1819, Chief Justice Marshall remarked, as preliminary to the subject, that "the Constitution in one of its most interesting and vital parts was to be examined, the conflicting powers of the Government of the Union and of its members were to be discussed, and an opinion given which might essentially influence the great operations of the Government." Approaching the subject with this conviction, the opinion he rendered is one of the ablest and most valuable ever given on any question of constitutional law. In especial is its value apparent now, when demagogues are busy with their crude and violent declamation in the endeavor to use this very question to mislead the people, with the selfish purpose of securing a party advantage To those who have traced out with such distinctness the constitutional powers of the Government, leaving no room for doubt on the subjects which they have considered, clearing away all sophistry and pointing out the true policy of the Government in regard to questions of such momentous importance, the country is indebted to an extent which it may never be able to appreciate. In the light of the decisions which have been rendered on this particular subject, the whole matter becomes clear; and the people have only to understand the well-settled and perfectly simple principles of the law to lead them to repudiate the twaddle of ignorant or dishonest partisans in reference to this question.

The first part of the opinion in the Maryland case was devoted to a discussion in regard to the power of the United States to establish a branch of the national bank in the State of Maryland. The constitutionality of this exercise of power was affirmed. The next question was whether the State of Maryland might tax that bank or its issues. The Chief Justice remarked that it was conceded "that the power of taxation is one of vital importance, that it is retained by the States; that it is not abridged by the grant of a similar power to the government of the Union; that it is to be concurrently exercised by the two governments. But such is the paramount character of the Constitution that its capacity to withdraw any subject from the action even of this power, is admitted. There is no express provision for this case, but the claim has been sustained on a principle which so entirely pervades the Constitution, is so intermixed with the materials which compose it, so interwoven with its web, so blended with its texture, as to be incapable of being separated from it without rending it into shreds." This great principle is that the Constitutions and laws of the respective States are subordinate to and are controlled by the Constitution of the United States and the laws made in pursuance thereof It was remarked that "the sovereignty of a State extends to everything which exists by its authority or is introduced by its permission," but that it does not extend to those means which are employed by Congress to carry into execution powers conferred on that body by the Constitution of the United States. The powers of the States over the subject of taxation are traced in this lucid manner:

All subjects over which the sovereign power of a State extends, are objects of taxation; but those upon which it does not extend, are, upon the soundest principles, exempt from taxation If we measure the power of taxation residing in a State by the extent of sovereignty which the people of a single State possess, and can confer on its government, we have an intelligible standard applicable to every case to which power may be applied. We have a principle which leaves the power of taxing the people and property of a State unimpaired; which leaves to a State the command of all its resources and which places beyond its reach all those powers which are conferred by the people of the United States on the Government of the Union, and all those means which are given for the purpose of carrying those powers into execution. We have a principle which leads far the discrimination and safe for the Union.

It is obvious that the sovereignty of the States does not and cannot extend over the means employed by the National Government to raise money for the use of the United States. This would destroy one of the most important attributes of sovereignty belonging, by express terms of the Constitution, to the Government of the Union. The States have nothing to do with constitutional means used by the National Government to execute its powers The Chief Justice says that "the attempt to use the power of taxation on the means employed by the Government of the Union to execute its powers, is an abuse because it is the usurpation of a power which the people of a single State cannot give. We find then, on just theory, an exception to the right to tax the means employed by the Government of the Union for the execution of its powers. The right never existed." Again it is remarked that if the principle contended for by the State of Maryland in this case was applied the Constitution generally, it would totally change the character of that instrument."

We should find it," says the Chief Justice, "capable of arresting all the measures of the Government, and of prostrating it at the feet of the States The American people have declared their Constitution and the laws made in pursuance thereof supreme; but this principle would transfer the supremacy, in fact, to the States." The argument is pursued farther, as follows.

If the States may tax one instrument employed by the Government in the execution of its powers, they may tax any and every other instrument They may tax the mail; they may tax the mint, they may tax patent rights; they may tax the papers of the custom house; they may tax judicial process; they may tax all the means employed by the Government to an extent which would defeat all the ends of government. This was not intended by the American people. They did not design to make their Government dependent on the States.

Gentlemen say they do not claim the right to extend taxation to those objects. They limit their pretensions to property. But on what principle is this distinction made? Those who make it have furnished no reason for it, and the principle for which they contend denies it. If the controlling power of the States be established, if their supremacy as to taxation be acknowledged, what is to restrain their exercising this control in any shape they may please to give it? Their sovereignty is not confined to taxation. That is only one mode in which it might be displayed The question is, in truth, a question of supremacy; and if the right of the States to tax the means employed by the General Government be conceded, the declaration that the Constitution and the laws made in pursuance thereof shall be the supreme law of the land, is empty and nugatory declamation.

It is obvious that if the States were permitted to tax the securities of the United States, they might completely destroy the power of the General Government to borrow money. Taxation is an absolute power; it is an act of sovereignty. The decision before us says it of the power to tax involves the power to destroy, the power to destroy may defeat and render useless the power to create." Therefore if the States have this right the General Government has no security. Chief Justice Marshall tells us that the Government of the Union cannot repose this "confidence" in the governments of the States

The argument of the Chief Justice closes as follows: "The Court has bestowed on this subject its most deliberate consideration. The result is a conviction that the States have no power, by taxation or otherwise, to retard, impede, burden, or in any manner control the operations of the constitutional laws enacted by Congress to carry into execution the powers vested in the General Government. This is the unavoidable consequence of that supremacy which the Constitution has declared."

Shortly after this opinion was rendered, a case of a similar kind came before the Supreme Court from the State of Ohio It was decided on the same principles, and therefore we need not refer to it further. In 1829 a case came from Charleston, South Carolina, under which the subject was presented in a somewhat different form, but involving the same principles. In this case it was held that the stocks or securities issued for loans made to the United States and held by individuals, could not be taxed under the authority of a State or corporation The question involved in this case was precisely analogous to the question which is now raised regarding the taxation of bonds Chief Justice Marshall delivered the opinion in the case also, of which we shall present a synopsis at another time

Spirit of the State Press

The State Journal says that one of the articles of the Democratic faith is that there are no distinctions between the whites and negroes, except such as are made by law All the superiority which the white man has is just what human legislation has given him In this connection it remarks:

Many of the Democrats can already begin to feel the precariousness of their position, and actually feel the foundation move beneath them. Can't give the negro civil rights, because he then would be equal to you! Are these legal institutions all the difference? Suppose for the purposes of practical justice he be given every advantage which the white man has at law, does that make him the equal of the white man? The Democrat says so; and his Democratic structure depends upon the assertion Then take away all legislation, and as an abstract question they are equal! The Democratic doctrine asserts it.

This is very well turned. It is a very fair exposition of one of the "principles" of Democracy.

The Albany Journal remarks that the State sovereignty ideas of the "Democracy" are discarded now in all their platforms. This is one of noticeable features of their late campaigns But the Journal errs in supposing that these Aliens "are never mentioned except by those fossils who have no influence." There is to-day a lively fight within the Democratic party over this very question A large part of it desires to stick to the old principles, while a portion of it is anxious, through motives of expediency, to blink the old principles, for the present, out of sight. One of the speakers at the Dallas meeting expressed their policy exactly by counseling the party to wait till they should get into power, when they could safely declare what their principles are. But the "fossils" are by far the largest share of the party in this State. Take them away, and there would be nothing left of it.

The Umatilla Press is one of the papers which still adheres to the faith of its party. It says that the war "has settled nothing but a superiority of brute power, and as to the demand for guarantees for the future, all the guarantees this side of eternity will neither remove, curtail, nor reduce the liability of a State to secede." It says further Resolve the union of the United States perpetual! It is written that the "Heavens and the Earth shall pass away," "that all things shall become new," and yet a set of damned souls called a Romp Congress, act as though they and their heirs were always going to run Freedmen's Bureaus and make greenbacks.

The orthodoxy of the Press' Democracy is still further illustrated by its words of sorrow at the death of rebel General Price.

There are thousands of hearts that will throb heavily at the portal of the grave of Sterling Price He died as he has lived, a good man and christian. As a citizen he was without reproach—as a soldier his sword is untarnished with dishonor. We join with every good man in mourning the loss which his kindred, his friends, society and the nation has sustained in the death of Sterling Price.

The editor of the Press was present at the recent Democratic meeting at Corvallis. He writes to his paper an account of the proceedings, in which he makes a couple of vicious thrusts at Bezieh, monster of Conventions:

I have had to take much cursing for the milk-and-water which was used at the Umatilla Convention. Pointing in the direction of Portland, I answer, "thou can'st not say I did it!"

The editor of this paper was called upon, and responded to a few brief remarks He did not clean the crowd out, but could have done so, had he had time

The Guard has an article about "sore-heads." It seems to be snoring some of the dissatisfied members of its party. It wants it distinctly understood that "no man without a clear political record" shall have its support. This is probably said for the benefit of those who joined the Union party in 1861 and afterwards quit it because they could not get office, and then went into the Democratic camp looking for spoils.

The Sentinel has the following remarks upon the action of Congress in enforcing impartial suffrage at the South:

The rebel whites were so thoroughly disloyal to the constitution of the United States, that Congress found it necessary to place the ballot in the hands of the blacks who were loyal, and we applauded. We believed that it was right to use the black man at the ballot-box against the spirit of rebellion, just as he had been used in the field against its physical resistance We did not applaud because the right of every negro in the South (to vote) had been recognized; but because Congress had placed power in the hands of the enfranchised race to neutralize the evil effects of rebel votes and provide for their own protection. To this extent we justify and endorse negro suffrage, and whenever we are satisfied that universal suffrage, without any qualifications, is necessary to perpetuate our Government and strengthen the bulwarks of liberty, we will be ready to advocate it as a principle and a right.

The Chronicle's "leader" of this week consists of a story of the class furnished by the Police Gazettes. It is introduced with heavy display lines, and dressed out in a style corresponding with the most approved models of that sort of literature. The Record criticises the Chronicle's story as follows

Whatever of truth there may be in it—and we don't say there is much, or deby there is any—we give our brother editor much credit for credulity when he accepts the say so of one party with unqualified endorsement, and weaves with such pathetic skill so sensational a tale The story from which the romance was so ingeniously woven, has been current for some time, and, if certainly true, it might have found a hearing nearer home We propose to screen no ill doer, but decline to take "reported" stories as foundation for a charge so serious, or quote "the general understanding" as proof for the compounding of a felony. The story as told is improbable.

The editor of the Lafayette Courier wishes to display his linguistic learning. He is evidently anxious to show that for him and accordingly he gets off the following:

Latin is no more difficile
Than for a blackbird 'tis to whistle,

J D, of the Poor Man's Market, presented us with a choice corum bonum, which we heartily relished and thanked the generous donor with our whole heart.

Pass that "Latin" round to the boys in the grammar school. We fear the editor of the Courier will have to be put back to penna, sermo, and Ano Axo hoc.

IMPEACHMENT.—The New York Nation having opposed impeachment last year, presumes to lecture those who think that its course was mistaken and unwise, and says

"Those who then opposed impeachment were right, because there was then every reason to believe that there would be no occasion for it There is now every reason to believe that there is no other mode of completing the work of reconstruction

Upon this, the Missouri Democrat says

"If a man should put to sea when the barometer indicated a storm, it would look very like the surpassing conceit of hopeless ignorance for him to say, when overtaken by the tempest, 'I was right, for there was then every reason to expect fair weather' The trouble with the Nation and many others was that they did not understand the political barometer. Others did, and pressed just what has taken place. All men are liable to err, but there are very few men who, having erred, have the manliness to say, 'You were right and I was wrong.'"

"Democratic Principles."

At the last Union meeting in Polk county, Capt. Lafollett read the following resolutions expressive of the sentiments uttered by the speakers at the Democratic mass meeting in Dallas, September 14th, 1867 He commented upon them and affirmed that they were the utterances of the Democratic speakers at their mass meeting. He said "Many of you heard the speeches, and if I have not reported them correctly, show me where they are wrong; the fact is, every man is correctly reported, and you all know it."

Resolved, 1. That our free school system is a free curse upon the American people [Beriah Brown.]

2. That there was no moral wrong in the South taking up arms against the Government of the United States. [Beriah Brown]

3. That we are in favor of repudiating the national debt. [Semple, Hayden and Strong.]

4. That we can no more injure the character of the Government of the United States than the character for chastity of a whore. [Judge Strong, of Portland]

5. That there has not been an honest man elected to office in Polk county since 1860. [Hayden.]

6. That Senator Williams is a liar. [Ben. Hayden] This resolution must be repeated forty times.

7. That the Methodist Episcopal Church is a sneaking, snivelling, hypocritical, negro-equality, traitorous set [Ben. Hayden]

8. That if we cannot get our rights at the ballot-box and carry the election in 1868, we will appeal to the bayonet [Semple and Hayden.]

9. That General Ulysses S. Grant is a beastly drunkard, and that he was drunk with Judge Strong over in Washington Territory. [Hayden.]

10. That the Rump Congress is a villainous, traitorous set, and if Andrew Johnson had done his duty he would have driven them out of the legislative halls at the point of the bayonet. [Hayden]

11. That Phil Sheridan is a drunkard, a traitor, and he was a secessionist, and I saw his squaw digging camas over on the Yamhill the other day. [Hayden.]

12. That the first great Democratic principle is to get the offices, after which we will promulgate our true principles. [Judge Strong.]

13. That Massachusetts should be laid waste with sword, blood and fire, as South Carolina has been, and as sure as God is just, it will be done, and who will say nay! [Hayden]

THE OREGON CENTRAL RAILROAD CO.—The Unionist has the following:

We were shown during the week the correspondence between between the Secretary of the Interior and Mr. Gaston. The Secretary of Interior recognized and addressed Mr. Gaston as President of the road, and informs him that the formal assent of the Oregon Central Railroad Company was received by that department and filed on the 1st day of July last We note this fact, because it has been thought that the departments would not recognize the O C R. Co. as one entitled to file an assent for the purpose of receiving a patent to the lands granted by Congress to aid in building a railroad, connecting California and Portland, Ogn. The assent spoken of above is a formal consent by the company to receive the lands granted, subject to the conditions of the act of Congress making the donation of lands to the State for the purpose above indicated.

DULL DAY FOR ITEMS.—Yesterday, though a lively day for the shavers and sellers was the dog goneiest dull day for items that we remember ever to have dragged through. The history of just such a day ought to be written in full for the purpose of giving local editors a standing object to anathematize Everybody dull in once in awhile a day that is utterly blank out of which the bottom was knocked at a very early hour in the morning Such an one was yesterday to the Local About ten o clock we came down town, in good humor as ten o clock A M ever found no editor We met B yet most of the Herald. His face was all over one big smile He was in a happy frame we are confident We never witnessed a more suspicious start—outside of Vanhilt It wandered forth in quest of ye little items; so did we We walked up Front street as far as we could find a man woman, child or colored passon result nary item We walked back; result, ditto Went up Front street, result, three like items—invented Walked back result, a water haul Went down Front street; saw a man who looked as though he had an item; spoke to him he hadn't one. Nearly noon met B asked him what luck "none" said B, and B groaned; so did we With a groan apiece we parted and each made another start Went to steamer Elmore Troup the Troup had a small item; we bagged it; was asked to drink too much discouraged to do it and declined; was sorry for it right away Went to lunch, lunchily thought we were in affliction, that was exactly what we thought; a coincidence Started again, went to Recorder's court; found a long string of males and females up for various offenses of our joy at this news we bolted over in for Recorder'; didn t though and thus we saved five dollars—equal to ten cents B came in and when he saw the array he "snickered right out"; so did we. Consult our respective columns and see if we haven t made the most of the Recorder's morning and evening lovees The rest of the day was similar in every respect except that there wasn't any more Recorder s court We walked up and then walked down, went out to the suburbs and came back nobody knew nothing; so did we The wharves were deserted Here went the pupils of our item in that quarter, ditto when the afternoon steamers came in Not a horse ran away, nor any man s wife as far as heard from, not a dog fight, nor day bull in a China shop Thus it went till night threw her sable mantle down and ushered on the most tame drowning day of this Anno Domini, up to date. All the horrible day, we consoled ourself with the reflection that the common Fathers would meet in the evening and transact enough business and such, to fill half a column at least Evening came; Rhetus didn t rule of the Fathers, there was no quorum on business, so nothing If we ever felt injured it was then; 'twas the most unkindest cut of all The result of the day's labor was as you see it. If there is an item or any two of them in either of the morning papers of the intrinsic value of a cancelled postage stamp, we'll agree to give the finder half a dollar, on demand and due proof

THINGS AT VANCOUVER.—A couple of jolly firemen of Vancouver, were over here yesterday, and they represented that Vancouver was on a bender on Tuesday night—at least, that is to the best of their recollection The firemen were having some sort of jollification (their account is a little incoherent,) and then they got to drinking lager. After the lager came—more lager Then there was some jollification among the firemen, and others; and then for the stomach's sake, a little more lager The result of all this was that the ground got a little unsteady and two of the city dignitaries got irregularly and undignified and called each other names which indicated mutual setting of a slightly negative character This contretemps (give those two words a liberal meaning) ended, however, without blood or other serious results; and then the jollification got wider it seized upon small and sober citizens; (actually) it seized upon the town, and then everything went as merry as a marriage bell Some of the staid and sober citizens stayed out nearly all night; whether they went home sober is another question one which admits of discussion The Bang-Aways corps, having lately received a new organ, got it out and tried it, it worked elegantly—at least, so the Bang-Aways seemed to think, for they kept it going, going till everybody wished it gone Unlike a base ball club, the Bang-Aways were unprovided with a "short stop" that's the reason they didn t stop The new organ is considered a big thing—by the Bang Aways Other people are dubious and when it is inoculated, shake their heads The result of the jollification, was that, for two days and a night Vancouver was about the most wide-awake town on the Pacific slope The jollification however, ended at last and now quiet reigns along the banks of the side of the "Oregon"

COURT.—Yesterday morning the Recorder held the most decidedly brilliant levee of the season. There were four cases of "disorderly conduct," two of them being mixed with "drunk," two cases of "larceny" and one case of "pretty waiter girls" The parties to suits and witnesses for against, constituted the largest and most general assortment the Recorder has had for months in the way of an audience.

To begin, there was Indian Jack, who was up for being drunk and disorderly on Morrison, and who was sent to jail for five days, in default of five cents

Bill Delaney drunk and disorderly on First street was sent up for five days.

Kate somebody had been abusing Louise somebody else, calling her names which the latter swore, do not belong to her; but the parties not being ready for trial, the case was continued till this morning.

Peter Kaster had been on a bender a night or two before and had gone up to the "Court of Death" where he says he fell among thieves He charged Mary Deforest with stealing his money; but he utterly failed to prove anything and the Recorder dismissing the prosecution forthwith charged the costs to Kaster, the complainant, and sent him to jail in default of payment.

Mrs E M Bath was up again on the charge of employing waiter girls in her house on Front street without having a license therefor the case was heard and the Recorder reserved his decision, at till this morning

Clara Chappelle, one of the parties who engaged in a free mouthed set-to, on Second street a little over a week ago, was brought up on a charge of disorderly conduct, continued till this morning.

AN OLD CARGO IN THE MARKET.—The schooner J C Champion, in addition to the miscellaneous which we published yesterday morning, brought 40 pounds of bees-wax which was washed ashore from a wrecked ship, longer ago than any of the Indians living on the Bay can remember They have a story that a great many years ago, a vessel came ashore and was lost, and shortly after, the bees were cast ashore. According to the description the Indians give of the sailors, they are thought to have been Mexicans. Captain Quick brought around some of it and sold it here for 15 cents per pound Among the masses on the beach, are pieces of wax can be seen from which it is supposed the shipwreck was designed for some Catholic Mission on the northern coast

INQUEST.—Subsequent to the morning session of the Police Court, the following arrests were made

Miles Robinson, at the complaint of Clara Chappelle, for disorderly conduct on Second street, on the night of the 9th inst. The defendant is the person with whom the complaining witness had the disgusting quarrel mentioned a few days since. The trial was postponed till this morning

J Mitchell, at the complaint of H Miller, was arrested on the charge of assault and battery He gave bail for his appearance this morning

H Miller was arrested on complaint of J Mitchell for an assault and Battery. He, also, gave bail for his appearance to-day

COMMISSARY, VERY.—The editor of the Idaho Statesman is in San Francisco He expects to return by the "stage brush route." The individual who is officiating as editor in his absence, having that his chief did not get canted in San Francisco as was reported a few days ago relieves his mind by giving vent to the following bit of delicate humor "If the 'old man' can manage to get his 'star lifted' by the Indians on his return trip it would be a treasure soothe our disappointed feelings and furnish readable news to our subscribers"

DISTRICT COURT AT VANCOUVER.—The District Court for Clarke county, W T, Judge Hewett presiding, will begin its fall term next Monday, the 21st There are several criminal cases which are expected to go upon the docket. Among others, the charge against the stage driver, Michel of Gatlopolis, of an assault with a dangerous weapon, upon Guthrie, another stage driver, will be brought before the grand jury

STREET REPAIRING.—We noticed yesterday that men were at work putting down a sewer at the break in Front street above Harrison The street, we learn, is to be repaired. It has now been some eight or ten months since the heavy rains filled up the basin above run over and washed a crevasse in the street; and it would seem that, for the credit of the city, it is time the repairing were done.

A WELCOME BASKET.—A deputation from the Ladies' Fair last evening, waited on this office at a seasonable hour, bearing a basket of eatables for the printers The printers spared the basket and the dishes and ate spoons but the other contents went the way of all refreshments of that sort the printers blessed the ladies and the food and then broke and ate Who would'nt?

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNCIL.—Regular meeting, Wednesday evening Oct. 16th His Honor the Mayor called the Council to order, when Messrs Mulkey Porter and Rosenbaum answered to their names Absent—Messrs. Bonner, Beach, Vechlebuhn, Hallock McAraken and Ripley. There being no quorum, on motion of Mr Mulkey, the Council adjourned

THE LADIES FAIR.—The fair last evening, at Monnastes's new hall on First street, under the management of the ladies of the Baptist Church was attended by a large number of visitors and the proceeds were quite up to the expectations of the most sanguine The affair is represented as decidedly a pleasant one

WARRANTS ISSUED.—A warrant was issued a day or two since for the arrest of a man named Fred Stump accused of larceny He had left the county and authority was sent for his arrest anywhere A warrant was issued last evening by the Recorder for the arrest of Indian John for stealing a woman's shawl

DAY OF HUMILIATION FASTING AND PRAYER.—To-day is the day set apart by resolution of the R W Grand Lodge I O G T of North America and by the proclamation of the G W C T of Oregon to be observed as a day of humiliation, fasting and prayer

WILLAMETTE FREIGHTS.—Arrived per steamer Alert from Oregon City yesterday, 653 sacks flour 1 keg butter, 1 wagon, 340 bags wheat, 71 bags barley 25 sacks oats, 13 bales woolen goods 1 sack flocks and 88 boxes apples

LUNCH TO-DAY.—The ladies under whose management the fair was conducted last evening will not out lunch, at Monnastes' hall, from 1 o'clock to 2 P M The place is on First street between Morrison and Yamhill

BASE BALL TO-DAY.—The Pioneers will play at 4 o clock this afternoon at their grounds at Oak and Fifth streets A prompt attendance is desired.

WHEAT went up again yesterday in this city to $1 25 @1 25 per bushel

THE FIRST LINCOLN MONUMENT.—Cincinnati is to have the honor of erecting the first monument to Mr. Lincoln. The Cincinnati Gazette gives the following particulars

Cincinnati has reason to congratulate herself that while other cities have been compelled to resort to persistent and constant appeal for means to erect such monuments, particularly to the martyred Lincoln in one of her citizens, with a large hearted generosity indistinctly creditable to his patriotism and public spirit has determined that the Park we have named after the country's savior, shall not be with out a suitable and enduring monument to his memory Mr Thomas White of the firm of P White & Son marble dealers conceived the idea and at once set about its practical realization On the 11th of March last the firm submitted to the Park Commissioners a draft of the monument they had designed, with the offer to place it in Lincoln Park complete and free of expense to the city, reserving only the right, when the work should be finished and found satisfactory to the public to call upon such public spirited citizens as might feel disposed to share in the patriotic enterprise for free-will contributions to reimburse Messrs White & Son some portion of the heavy outlay involved

Of course this generous proposition was promptly accepted by the Park Commissioners The senior Mr White, with whom the design originated, has been for some time in Europe, and has lately shipped from Italy a splendid bust of Mr. Lincoln, exquisitely life like and perfect sculptured from the finest Carrara marble This is now on exhibition at the office of White & Son, and commands the admiration of all who have seen it It will occupy a place under the canopy directly in the centre of the monument, which is to consist of a chastely designed and elaborately ornamented Grecian temple in pure white marble The structure will have an elevation of about twenty five feet and is to be erected on a mound near the bank of the lake in the Park, upon a spot selected by Mr Staunch the landscapist, where it will be reflected in the waters of the lake Two marble lions, also presented by the Messrs White are to guard the bases of the monument, which are of granite, massive and effective in design, and the whole work will be surmounted by a finely sculptured effigy in marble of the "bird of freedom" The entire monument, as exhibited in the drawings, received high encomiums from artists and amateurs of taste, both at home and abroad

The following State officers are to be elected in November, in New York A Secretary of State in the place of Francis C Barlow. A Comptroller in the place of Thomas Hillhouse A Treasurer in the place of Joseph Howland An Attorney-General in the place of John H Martindale A State Engineer and Surveyor in the place of J Platt Goodell A Canal Commissioner in the place of Franklin A. Alberger An Inspector of State Prisons in the place of David F. Forrest A Judge of a Court of Appeals in the place of Henry E Davies All of whose term of office will expire on the last day of December next.

MEXICAN FINANCES.—President Juarez demanded the import tax paid the last quarter to the Imperialists. This was a heavy tax upon the commercial classes, said to be five sixths foreigners, and it was compromised by the payment of $150,000. The Juarez Government must borrow money from the United States, or there will be another revolution. A revolution may soon come, anyway, as it is a chronic disease in Mexico

THE CAUSE.—It has been ascertained that the demonstration on Saturday night was not owing to the news of the Democratic victories, but to the fact that Berman Bros. received on Saturday an immense stock of Clothing by the steamers, which they are selling at marvelously low prices

We have but little confidence in the trumpet tongued statements of the proprietors of advertised medicines generally, but we are forced to concur in the opinion, uniformly expressed by all who have used PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER, that it is a very valuable article, and one that it would be well for every household to have at hand, in case of bruises, scalds burns, diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera, fever and ague, and the host of diseases, external and internal, which it is adapted to cure or alleviate No article of medicine ever attained to such unbounded popularity and extensive diffusion It has penetrated to every part even the most remote, of the known world, bearing with it its healing influences more potent than those of the spices of "Araby the blest." We are informed by our principal druggists, that they sell more of this article for exportation than any or all others, and that the demand is constantly increasing—Salem Observer.

LITTLE GIANT
Clothes Wringer
WE WOULD RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE T

Little Plaid Sun-Bonnet.

Little plaid sun bonnet, what do you hide,
Down in the grass by the sunny wall side?
Any short ringlets half curled and curly?
Any round forehead as pure as a pearl?
Any blue eyes with a laugh bubbling over?
Any red mouth rising on a red clover?
Is it the wind makes you dance up and down?
Or is it the fairy head under your crown?

O, Earth is bright, by the glad Summer kissed!
Millions of roses might scarcely be missed;
Acres of butter-cups, growing so gay,
Cause not a sigh when their gold drops away.
Yet to my heart how your charms were destroyed,
All your fresh mead was how wintry and cold,
Earth, should you lose from your beauty and prism,
Just what a little plaid bonnet cannot hide

Its Weakness and Its Strength.

The following article is from the San Francisco Dramatic Chronicle: It evinces excellent judgment and a clear knowledge of the composition of the Republican party:

The weakness of the Republican party seems to reside in the circumstance that it cannot be wielded like a unit. It is made in great part of men whose attachment to party is not so strong as their attachment to ideas, and who, consequently cannot be easily managed by party leaders or be always relied upon to yield with docility to party discipline. Democrats may, as a general thing, be safely counted upon to vote "the regular ticket," and it is with them a favorite boast, "I never scratched a Democratic ticket." Their fealty to party is like that of a soldier to his flag; their obedience to party authority and usage is as unquestioning as that of the soldier to his superior officer. Individual judgment, reason and conscience are silenced when the party has spoken through its duly organized conventions. The Democratic masses cling to party with a passionate devotion, and move with it, what ever its course, with a blind enthusiasm. The Republicans are no less devoted, but their devotion is to ideas. They are no less enthusiastic, but their enthusiasm is not of the childish sort that can be roused by mere party names and symbols. Herein is the weakness of the Republican party for the mere purpose of carrying elections, and retaining the political ascendency for any length of time, when it has been gained. It will not suffer itself to be used by its leaders for their own ends, or the mere party ends. Its most skillful managers, no matter how much influence they have gained, can never feel quite sure that they "own the party," or that they can rally its entire strength in support of any particular candidate or measure. Herein is weakness as a permanent political organization: and herein, no less, is its strength in great national crises, when new questions arise, involving ideas of abstract right and moral duty. In a free government there must be parties, and it is well that there should be. Parties must have leaders. These leaders will generally be politicians rather than statesmen, possessing more of the partisan than of the patriotic spirit. They will, of course, regard party success as desirable, and they are in danger of regarding it as so desirable as to justify the sacrifice of principle for its attainment. To cultivate the talent of managing and securing "available results," of controlling cliques and men, of making compromises, healing dissensions, harmonizing discordant elements in the party, and in short all the acts by which primaries and conventions can be "fixed," and elections carried. It is but natural that these men, however irreproachable their personal characters in the private relations of life, should adopt a low code of political morality, should sometime trade principle for immediate success, and should bargain, and truckle, and dicker in a way that seems shocking to the austere moralist. But though party and party leaders are inevitable in free governments, there is fortunately an element, and a large element in the population of the United States, that cannot be relied upon to act steadily with any party, and that represents independent, critical, honest public opinion outside of party organizations, or if inside of them, holding to slack an allegiance that they are at any moment ready to transfer it rather than sacrifice principle or conscience. This is an element that will not sympathize with leaders who, on the eve of a Presidential election, are chiefly concerned in President making, and in winning this battle at the polls for their party. It is an element that is odious to political managers, who denounce it as cold-blooded, because it is slow in becoming enthusiastic for men, or for shibboleth, and call it fickle and treacherous, because it is independent, and will not stick to any side through thick and thin. Ever since the first rise of the Republican party, it has contained a large share of this element, acting with the party rather than belonging to it. It is the adhesion of this element that strengthened the hands of Republicans from the beginning of the war down to the last Congressional election. Politicians generally have not understood how large a per centage there is of Republicans of this independent, unmanageable stripe. But they are now in a fair way of discovering it.

SENATOR MORTON ON THE FINANCES.—Senator Morton, in a letter disapproving the policy of attempting to pay off any considerable portion of the national debt, says:

This generation has to discharge a large State, county and municipal indebtedness growing out of the war, and within the next ten years will have to pay not less than $400,000,000 for pensions and bounties, besides extraordinary expenses for Indian wars and other contingencies. In ten years our population will have increased 10,000,000, and our taxable property nearly double in value. In ten years a tax twice in amount can be borne easier than the tax of to-day. Within ten years the Southern States will be reconstructed and in the enjoyment of comparative prosperity. Within ten years, and perhaps within five, the increased population, wealth and capital will enable the Government to sell at par bonds bearing a much lower interest than the present, and thus refund and reduce the debt. Should the Government find itself at any time in possession of a surplus revenue that can be applied to the reduction of the debt, it should, of course, be promptly applied; but any attempt to pay the bonded debt of the country, by heavy taxation, or by inflating the currency, will be unnecessary, and injurious, and in ten years, and possibly in five, the differences in value between gold and greenbacks will have ceased to exist, by a gradual return to specie payment, and the question of the mode of payment of the bonds, whether in gold or greenbacks, will have become unimportant. Specie payments cannot be reached without contracting the currency, by waiting a reasonable time, until successful reconstruction and the growth of wealth and business has brought the country up to the existing volume of currency without a financial convulsion. The decline of gold from 200 to 40 brought a corresponding reduction in the price of property, attended with great loss and derangement of business. Another inflation of currency would be attended with another account and descent of prices, and with immense disasters to the nation. What the country needs is repose and stability in our financial policy, and without these trade and prosperity must languish. When our debt was contracted, the man who now clamors for immediate payment denounced bonds and greenbacks as alike worthless, and, discarded the people from lending their money to carry on the war, and my opinion is they mean no better to the country now than they did then. Now, as then, their effort is to destroy the public credit. The proposition to pay the public debt in advance is unnecessary, impracticable and destructive, and would result in benefit to none, unless it would be to the gold gamblers, and they would ultimately be "hoisted by their own petard, as they were at the close of the war.

A CHICAGO GRAIN STORY.—A Chicago correspondent writes under date of August 20th as follows:

The telegraph has told the serio-comic story of how, a week or two ago, one D. A. Goodrich, stimulated doubtless by the handsome reward of $500 per head for each conviction, aroused himself to the fact that the Board of Trade was daily violating the law by selling grain to be delivered at a future day, the sellers at the time not owning the grain which they agreed to deliver, and thus according to the working of a recent law, being "gamblers;" how he caused the arrest on 'Change of about a dozen of the prominent dealers, and had them bound over to appear at the Recorder's Court for trial, and now the Board of Trade are vastly excited, and propose to try the law on the other side also. The Times having accused Mr. Goodrich of dishonesty in this matter, that gentleman has seized the paper for $50,000. He is said to have warrants against 100 grain dealers, and if he gets his $500 reward from each of them, and this $50,000 damages he will have made a good thing in becoming the law's avenger.

A VERDICT.—Much mirth has been made over the verdict of Irish "Coroner's juries" when called to "set upon" a cold corpse. Here is a specimen of what the colored brethren can do in the same line:

De deceased am believed to have drunk his-self out of life, den to hab been fatally injured by de cutting off of hof his legs by de railroad train which ran ober him, probiously and subsequently too which he rolled off de bridge, receiving a mortal wound by hitting his head on a pier; from which it appears he fell into de water and was drowned, and being washed ashore was finally frozen to death; which am de verdict to which we come, crim con."

The Mosquito.

A writer thus tells how the mosquito looks, what he does for a living, and how he is produced:

It is unscientific to say that mosquitoes bite, for they have no teeth, and they have no need of teeth to skin upon and take food, for they are dainty and take food only in the liquid form—upon victuals. They are a chivalric race, and attack their enemies with a sort of sword or lance; no doubt they consider biting and gouging quite vulgar. The lance of the mosquito is a very beautiful and perfect piece of work; it is smoother than burnished steel, and its point is so fine and perfect that the most powerful microscope does not discover a flaw in it. As the most delicate cambric needle is to the crowbar, so is the mosquito's lance to the best Damascus blade. The lance is worn in a scabbard or sheath. The scabbard is a suction pipe through which the mosquito drinks its food. The mosquito is the most musical of all animals. There is no bird which sings so much. He never tires of his simple song. How happy must he be, cheerily singing far into the night! What a volume of music from so slight a creature! If a man had a voice so loud proportionate to his weight, he might hold a conversation across the Atlantic, and there would be no need of the telegraph. Let us inquire about the earliest beginning of the mosquito, let us take him in the egg. The mother mosquito has a notion of naval architecture, and out of the eggs she lays she constructs a well modeled boat, with elevated bow and stern and well proportioned midships. For the boat she employs 250 to 350 eggs, building it up piece meal, somewhat after the manner of men binding together the individual eggs by means of a powerful water proof cement, into a substantial and complete structure. Unfortunately, we are unable to give a recipe for the water-proof cement, there are many who would like to have it. The boat is built on the water, and when completed she confidently abandons it to the mercy of the wind and the wave. Thanks to the water-proof cement, she can neither be broken, wetted nor sunk; she is safer than if she were copper bottomed. The little craft, it must be remembered, is freighted with life—each of its 250 or 350 little state rooms has its tenant. After a few days' cruising, the occupants of the shell come forth and the ship is destroyed. But those little creatures are surely not mosquitoes; they appear more like fish, or serpents, or little dragons. On closer examination they prove to be what every one knows under the name of "wigglers;" they are the larvæ of the mosquito. They wiggle in the well known way for a week or two, and after changing their skins two or three times, they assume quite a new form and movement. They are now what the boys call "tumblers," and are the pupæ of the mosquito. In about a week, if the weather, etc., be favorable, something of the form of the mosquito may be seen through the transparent skin of the tumbler. Shortly the prisoner escapes from his confinement as a full fledged and bold mosquito, and soars away in search of food and pleasure.—Scientific American.

Death Warrant of Christ.

The Courrier des Etats Unis says:

"Chance has put into our hands the most imposing and interesting judicial document to all Christians, that has ever been recorded in human annals, that is, the identical death warrant of our Lord Jesus Christ. We transcribe the document from a copy of the translation.

SENTENCE.

Rendered by Pontius Pilate, acting Governor of Lower Galilee, that Jesus of Nazareth shall Suffer Death on the Cross.

In the year 17 of the Empire Tiberius Cæsar, and the 4th of March, the city of the Holy Jerusalem: Annas and Caiaphas being priests, sacrificators of the people of God, Pontius Pilate, Governor of the praetory, condemn Jesus of Nazareth to die on the cross between two thieves—the great and notorious evildoer of the people saying—

1. He is a seducer.
2. He is seditious.
3. He is the enemy of the law.
4. He calls himself, falsely, the son of God.
5. He calls himself the King of Israel.
6. He entered into the temple, followed by a multitude bearing palm branches in their hands.

Order the centurion, Quintius Cornelius, to lead him to the place of execution.

Forbid any person, whomsoever, poor or rich, to oppose the death of Jesus.

The witnesses that signed the death of Jesus, are:

1. Daniel Rubani, a Pharisee.
2. Janus Rorobabble.
3. Capet, a citizen.

Jesus shall go out of the city, by the gate "Strenuous."

The above sentences are engraved on a copper plate—on one side is written these words:

A similar plate is sent to each of these tribes.

It was found in an antique vase while excavating in the city of Aquille, in the Kingdom of Naples, in the year 1824, and was discovered by the Commissariat of Arts attached to the French armies. At the expedition it was found enclosed in a box of ebony, in the sacristy of Caurtem.

The French translation was made by the members of the Commission of arts. The children requested earnestly that the plate might not be taken away from them. The request was granted as a reward for the army. Mr. Desnon, one of the clerks, caused a plate to be made as a model, on which he had engraved the above sentence. At the sale of his collection of curiosities, it was bought by Lord Howard for 5,884 francs.

Where Was It?

"A more faithful band of preachers than that which composes the Columbia Conference is not to be found in all the Church. The waves of persecution and sectional hate that have beat against and rolled over our Church in the East and in California reached Oregon and spent their force on our Church, newly planted here. Our ministers were abused, insulted, slandered and threatened with death; mobs gathered at our meetings with the avowed purpose of hanging our preachers; but still that little band, faithful to their holy trust, went forward * * * expecting to meet death."

We are eager to know where all this transpired. Having been in Oregon much longer than Prof. Emory, and having seen most of the State, and having had regular communication with every county in the State in which a paper is published, and having never before heard of such violent persecution, we are extremely anxious to know when and where the citizens of this State were so lawless! We rather opine that Oregonians will consider the Spectator's correspondent largely endowed with imagination. His article was evidently written for California and not for Oregon. Dates, localities and facts, are somewhat important when railing accusations are published in the papers, which must affect the reputation of the people of an entire State.

Will Bro. E. produce the proofs, or consent himself to be considered guilty of wholesale slander.—Advocate.

WAT'S ZE NAME?—A Frenchman, a stranger in New York, stopped a lad in the street, and politely asked:

"Mon friend, wat's ze name of zis street?"

"Well, who said it wasn't?" replied the boy.

"Wat's you call zis street?"

"Of course we do."

"Pardonnez! I have not ze name; what you call him?"

"Yes. Watts, we call it."

"Zis street?"

"Watt's street, old fellow; and don't you try to make game of me."

"Sacre nom de Dieu! I ask you one, two, tree several time, often, will you tell me ze name of ze street, eh?"

"Watts, street, I tell you. You're drunk, ain't you?"

"In Vandam street."

"Eh bien! You live in von dam street, and you is von d—d fool!"

And they parted, entertaining a high opinion of each other's politeness.

Telegraphs have of late been extended in all parts of the civilized world with marvelous rapidity. The total length of the telegraphic lines of the world was, according to a German statistician, at the beginning of the past year, about 45,000 German (180,000 English) miles, of which 11,325 were in the United States, 6,002 in Germany, 4,016 in Russia, 3,998 in France, and 3,484 in Great Britain and Ireland. The Government of Prussia, always intent upon perfecting every department of civil administration, has just officially announced that it will extend the telegraph to every town with a population of 1,500.

BRONCHITIS OR CHRONIC SORE THROAT.—It is attended with irritation of the bronchial tubes, which convey the air we breathe into the lungs. This irritation produces sore throat, hoarseness, coughing, and sometimes spitting of matter streaked with blood. If it is neglected it will extend down to the lungs, and settle into confirmed consumption. ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will be found a most valuable remedy for curing this disease, and prevent its running into Consumption.—Sold by dealers in family medicines generally.

We should not suffer from a Cough, when a few doses of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL will cure Time, comfort, health, are all saved by it.

CARD.

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH'S WATER CURE AND Phrenological Institute, 627 Sacramento Street, San Francisco. This is the only Regular Water Cure in Francisco, where all curable diseases are treated without drugs. Dr Smith was the first to establish a water cure on this coast, based upon the theory and practice of the New York Hydropathic College.

We have a truly healthful boarding place for men, women and children, and our prices are moderate.

The Phrenological organs plainly indicate the diseases to which any person, male or female, is predisposed.

Put this card in your hat, and when you come to San Francisco, call on Dr. Smith. He will give you consultation and a phrenological examination in regard to health. It will cost you nothing and may save you months and years of ill health and "bad luck."

Dr. Smith gives free lectures to gentlemen every Friday evening, on subjects pertaining to health, at his Phrenological Hall, 627 Sacramento Street.

RENNICK'S SITKA LINIMENT!

THE MOST REMARKABLE DISCOVERY EVER MADE!

Will Cure All Pains in a Few Minutes!

Read the Certificates!

SPRAINED WRIST CURED.

PORTLAND, August 10, 1867.

I was at Mr Wagner's store on Saturday, August 10th, and seeing the magic effect of J. G. RENNICK'S SITKA LINIMENT, in his case, concluded to try it on my wrist which has been sprained for some time. I found relief inside of FIVE MINUTES from the application, and it is now perfectly well. My wrist was so swelled I could not close my fingers. I believe it will cure any pain in a short time. I will give any further particulars to whoever calls on me.

Tumor Removed!

PORTLAND, August 10th, 1867.

I HAVE USED RENNICK'S SITKA LINIMENT for pain and swelling of the gum and cheek. I had a large tumor forming on the gum which arose from killing the nerve in my tooth and caused me a dreadful pain which prevented me from sleep for several nights. I applied the Liniment, and to my surprise, it removed the lump and eased the pain so that it is now as well as the other cheek. My cheek was fearfully swollen. This was done in the presence of two witnesses.
I. MITCHELL

PORTLAND, August 12th, 1867.

For five years I have suffered with a pain or weakness in my back, which at times was dreadful. I often thought I could not bear such torment. But I got a bottle of RENNICK'S SITKA LINIMENT, and with one rub it perfectly cured me. I can recommend it to any lady suffering from pains in any way, for I am convinced it will at once remove them.

Rheumatism Cured!

State of Oregon, County of Multnomah—ss

I JEREMIAH BROCK, BEING DULY SWORN, SAY that I am fifty-three years of age, that I reside in Yamhill County, State of Oregon. I came to Portland on business, on horseback, from my home this morning. When I left home I could scarcely walk or stand on my feet, from Rheumatism, which has afflicted me for the last eight years. I was standing in Wilson's stable, on First street, in this city, when I heard Mr. Rennick's offer to test that he would take out the Rheumatism in any case in twenty minutes. Rennicks offered to bet $100 that he could do it. I went to Mr. Rennick's house and he applied the Liniment to my leg, and in twenty minutes my leg felt sound and limber, and as well as ever.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are
